| Overview:   | This procedure is an alternative to the dispute resolution process contained in the College policies or collective agreements with OCFA and AUPE and is intended to provide a mechanism to resolve disputes where the provisions of those agreements and policy do not apply. OCFA or AUPE members may choose to address disputes through the grievance procedures in their respective collective agreements.  |
| Procedures: | DISPUTE RESOLUTION PROCESS To resolve disputes which may arise from time to time, employees may pursue informal or formal means of resolution. Negotiation: Where possible, employees should address the dispute directly with the college staff member involved and seek to resolve the matter. It is expected that most issues can be resolved through discussion held in good faith. Mediation: If no agreement can be achieved through negotiation between college staff members, the employees may choose to involve the person(s) they report to. The supervisor(s) will be expected to review the relevant facts and discuss the issue with the parties within 10 business days to see if a resolution can be found through mediation. If the dispute involves the employee's supervisor, a request for mediation assistance may be made to the People &amp; Culture Business Partner or Manager. Arbitration: If the initial steps of negotiation and mediation fail to produce a resolution, the complainant may refer the dispute to the head of People &amp; Culture. Within fifteen business days of the receipt of the complaint, the head of People &amp; Culture (or a designate) along with the appropriate College Leadership Team (CLT) member(s) shall conduct a hearing to consider the dispute. Submissions may be made in writing or in person along with any related documentation. The person |

The decision may be in the form of non-binding recommendations to resolve the dispute or may be in the form of a final and binding decision. |
