

Respect builds stronger workplaces.

This organization has achieved a major milestone — with 90% or more of employees completing the Headversity Respect in the Workplace Training.

It's a commitment to people, a stronger culture, and a better tomorrow.

Headversity

Respect in the Workplace

CERTIFIED

What this means

By earning this certification, this organization has demonstrated its commitment to a respectful, inclusive and safe workplace.

High participation

90% or more of employees have completed the Headversity Respect in the Workplace Training.

Greater awareness

Employees understand bullying, abuse, harassment and discrimination — and how to prevent and respond to them.

A shared commitment

The organization stands behind the ideals of civility, respect and inclusion.

Upstanders, not bystanders

People are empowered to speak up, support others and help create a safer, more respectful workplace.

A stronger culture

Respect is part of how we work, how we lead and how we treat each other.

Continuous learning

This certification reflects a commitment to ongoing education and a world-class workplace culture.